

My response to Noovai and RTR Members as a whole

A little while ago, I made an agreement and an apology to Noovai about our differences on how AHC would be run and our certain relationship we had with each other. I also told him to please stop talking about the situation and not harass me when I banned MNep from my server for being a complete nuisance, spamming my server, and saying unnecessary stuff that felt like an attack on our server and how it was run and managed.

After I made that agreement with him for the past few months, I mainly shrugged off a lot of the stuff he was doing with other members mainly just telling others to ignore it and not get involved with any of the stuff he says, the same thing I usually say with mnepl when he was harassing me as well. But lately, Noovai has been getting a lot worse and has started thinking certain things, such as doxxing or scamming others, are completely okay. This is far beyond something Noovai would think, and it's not like him to go and think this is completely okay. And by that point, I knew that he was going too far, and I had to speak out on this situation from this lengthy document that I would make on him and the rest of the RTR members, because a lot of the members are pretty flawed as well and is probably where Noovai got most of his influence from, but he wasn't always like this in the past, which is something I want to go over before I get to the stuff going on currently.

In the past, I used to help Leo run the site by doing things such as setting up moderation, helping with forum themes, and overall being a supportive person for the site. This was when I still cared about the site, and it still felt valuable to run nowadays. However, the forums had a lot of limitations with how it was run, but a lot of the community didn't mind it and wanted to come back and post there, talking about Roblox and other sorts of topics. Noovai was one of the biggest supporters of RT at the time, and he was very supportive, especially when I was getting attacked by other members on the site and my toxic relationship with MNep. He was the best person I knew through support and loyalty, aside from other people that I knew at the time that was active on RTR. Even when I left as a co-owner because of the amount of drama and the doxxing situation at the time, noovai was still pretty supportive about me, but this changed when Leo gave ownership to Mnepl, I was pretty appalled at Leo at the time when he gave ownership to mnepl and rightfully so, mnepl does not know how to run a site properly and just uses it as his troll playground and his way of attacking other discord servers and forums associated with roblox's, Mnepl didn't like the use of discord servers or other forums because it takes away the activity of RTR in general or just forums like proboards or forumotions, this is extremely dubious because he never made any sort of effort in giving attention to his site to other users without looking like the bad guy, and somehow m nep thinks that this is completely okay. And those particular forums he was attacking don't even know RTR at all, and what the site is like. If he wanted to bring attention to other forums to his forums, he should have advertised it like any other normal person would, but of course, MNep had to act narcissistic and think the only other place people should talk about Roblox topics is his forums. Noovai was part of m nep's escapades by being a supporter for his forums and thinks a lot of his behavior is completely acceptable, it's ironic because this is what he was like on the forums when I was still around, a follower that would always go along with the things that the leader would say, no matter the sort of consequences that it can put him through. Which is how Noovai became pretty hated by the people I knew from ahc, he always speaks about a lot of things influenced by RTR, or at least from MNEP. I let RT go a while ago and mainly remembered it as my secondary place aside from Rbxcity before it got shut down a while ago; it had a bigger community, but not a very pleasant one. Of course, MNep and Noovai still think I still care about RTR and what their goal is for the site, but in reality, I care more about their actions on how they run their site than I ever cared about RT's legacy, I stopped caring about it when I first left that site for the reasons I stated above. I kind of also just wanted to move on to bigger and better things and to a part of a community that is more manageable with how things are tolerated. This is most of what I have to say about, before the stuff that is happening currently.

M nep and Noovai are pretty determined to keep RTR alive to the point where their ego gets the best of them. Going out of their way to do some pretty awful things to other members who are against their actions on the site, mostly people I knew from ahc. The members I knew on my server as well were generally flawed mostly consisting of provoking the situation with them especially when I didn't want them to, especially leo, I had to call him out a couple for doing certain things that I didn't tell him to do like Ban Noovai from my server, since he claims he's part of the situation from the raid, which made Noovai go and rant about it. He also went ahead and didn't give MNep the full payment and shut down the site without his permission. When that happened, I was pretty furious at what he did and told him to go and pay m nep if he decides on shutting down his forums. TEM is also pretty flawed in provoking the situation even more by going back and forth on his drama between him and M nep and Noovai. I kept telling TEM to leave the site if this is how M nep and Noovai run their site, but he never listened and still provoked them even when his discussions on them justified. AHC members are pretty flawed as well and I can't say I'm much flawless as well, I was always being strict on how things were runned between RTR and AHC, all I wanted the best and thought I knew how the place should be runned so that everybody can get along with each other and we wouldn't have any problems, but of course everyone had different opinions and I can't control that, but of course nobody is perfect. But I had a reason for why my rules were lengthy; I had to appeal to certain members who joined my server, and I wanted my server to appeal to the same kind of standards as other servers, to at least make it comfortable for everyone else.

Mnep have always been thinking that I take away the attention from other users and that we're more active than them, if you compare your forums to ours on AHC then clearly you have not made any real progress on trying to compete because we're aren't very active either and that says alot about RTR with that sort of comparison. But even then, I don't care about what happens to RTR as a whole, and how many members they manage to get. The thing I'm concerned about is that Mnep thinking we're dragging his members away and we're the ones attacking them when in reality they're doing this to themselves and we're just mainly telling members if they're having problems with the members on the server is by not dealing with them because that's the only other thing I can give advice that seems valuable because provoking them won't make much of a difference and I knew the consequences when I tried provoking any sort of conflict that isn't worth my time.

Mnep has not been the best influence with Noovai at all especially from everything that he used to do with me in the past, I tried making amends with mnep and tried setting our differences, but he still acted the same way and never listened to a single thing that I said and thought everything he did back then was just his way of trolling, it's like he didn't genuinely care and just blamed it on what was going on back then, which I guess is okay, but it doesn't explain the sort of things he does nowadays and I feel like he's gotten worse now. Noovai is taking that sort of influence with Mnep, which made him a lot worse was a person than he was back then. And because of that, I'm planning on cutting ties with Noovai as well until he thinks about how he treats other members who don't think the same as Mnep, it kind of hurts me to do that to him, especially since he no longer attacked me after we talked it over, I just couldn't stand and how he's been lately acting and I don't want to hang around with someone who thinks alot of the stuff that other RTR members do is completely okay. Noovai, if you're reading this, I'm sorry I unfriended you and blocked you, but I need some time to settle the situation with RTR and AHC, and I feel like, throughout what's been going on, you have not been the best influence for your members or anyone else, either did with mnep.

This will be the last message that I'm sending to RTR. I'm not responding anymore after this; I'm going out on my own terms, not anyone else's, and you can call me whatever you want; it won't change my mind about this whole situation alone. Goodbye RTR, at least for now.

- Ashbashthesmash